The Qasid-FIME Scholarship for Arabic Studies

The Qasid Institute for Arabic (www.qasid.com) in Amman, Jordan marks the beginning of the co-operation with the Finnish Institute in the Middle East (www.fime.fi) by offering a tuition scholarship for a Finnish student. The Qasid Institute for Arabic has quietly developed a reputation as one of the leading centers in the Middle East for Arabic language studies and its programmes are accredited by California State University.

The scholarship covers one term (3 months) of classical or modern standard Arabic studies at the Qasid Institute for Arabic. The term starts in the spring of 2012. FIME assists the student in finding accommodation and coping with everyday practicalities in Amman.

Applications including a curriculum vitae, a motivation letter and recommendations for the scholarship must be sent by e-mail to FIME (director@fime.fi) by the end of January 2012. The scholarship recipient will be selected by mid February.

Inquiries: Dr Ari Kerkkänen, FIME Director (director@fime.fi)
